

Holly Holton

From one person to one hundred people, Holly personally connects with everyone in the room. Her passion is to challenge the status quo and help women see what they are as heirs to God's kingdom – God's chosen warriors. Having gone from a great sinner needing abounding grace and forgiveness to the desperate woman touching the cloak of Jesus for healing, God has taken her on a journey that was meant to glorify him every single step of the way. In her own words, "Everything I have gone through is not for my glory, but for God's." Holly's honesty will challenge you and encourage you. With the Holy Spirit leading the way, you will see God and the Bible and all your circumstances in a whole new way.

"For the word of God is not just a lot of talk, but living by God's power"

1 Corinthians 4:20

Holly lives in Greensboro, North Carolina with her husband, Ryan and their boys Jonah and Rennen and one more on the way! They attend Daystar Church and have been active members for 9 years. Holly is the lead teacher of Daystar's women's group Monday Night Live.

Silly Girl, Silly Faith

To the world Holly may look like a silly girl with a silly faith, but to God she desperately wants to have a faith that will amaze Jesus. She will take you through her journey of misplaced identity and a life of shame to entering into a romance with God. In the midst of the happiest time in her life, the birth of her son Jonah, Holly was faced with the reality of stage 3 cancer. From the day of her diagnosis Holly had the choice of believing God and his eternal word or believing the doctors and statistics. In the darkest place, God's glory and power was revealed and no longer was status quo faith good enough.

Holly Holton is a dynamic speaker who brings God's word to life. Holly's life experiences give her wisdom beyond her years and her authenticity is refreshing. When she speaks, she stretches the boundaries of our faith and of God's love for us. Holly's life is a modern-day miracle, and hearing her story will make you redefine God's possibilities for your life!

Beth Sanders, Event Attendee

Holly's story is amazing. Her victory over cancer is a beautiful and inspiring testimony of courage and faith in the face of fear and uncertainty. Her message will challenge and encourage your women to trust Christ in all things and discover that He is enough!

In my own words...

Dear Warriors,
Did you know that you were chosen by God to be a warrior? My prayer is that by sharing with you my journey from salvation to supernatural healing, you will see God in a whole new way. What happened in the Bible still happens today and it is up to us to step out of an everyday ordinary faith and have a faith that would amaze Jesus! Are you up to the challenge?
